...up for trial before Judge O'Connell. Lizzie Thompson was charged with disturbing the peace and entered a plea of not guilty. She was fined $10 and costs. Thompson announced that they would try the case before Judge O'Connell. They evidently went to the court with a private attorney, one Fitzporter, an opponent of the state, in the role of a defense attorney. He was innocent, but he did not play his role with startling success, a question which the court and from City Attorney O'Connell, closing the ridiculousness of this case.

The first witness to take the stand was A. S. KNAPPER, proprietor of the Hotel Kozier. He testified that about 11 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, Annie Dunn, [entered the hotel and, without saying anything to him, went to the elevator and went to the second floor. The elevator boy told him that the elevator was broken and she left the house. At that time,

She afterward learned that he was in bed at the time. The woman, Mrs. Thompson, was there, and he had a fight. It was no affair of hers and she did not interfere.

"You say the defendant wanted a divorce from you, doctor?" asked the Court.

"Yes, your Honor."

"Well, doctor," said the Court, "don't you think after midnight in the morning, when you see a woman in the street, you would call out to her and say, 'Hello, my dear!'"

City Attorney Butler wanted to know if he wanted the prescription for, and if he wanted to sue for, and if he had concluded her testimony. Judge looked at her a little hard and said: "You are costs."

Then the strange feature of the trial developed. It showed what a noble and good man, Fitzporter, possessed. Not understanding the manner in which the doctor had injured him, he, with the good counsel which he is noted, managed to win his fines, amounting, with costs, to $100,000. In the course of five years the native population has decreased by 49,254 inhabitants (25,293 in Lorraine, 13,984 in Lower Alsace, and 9,967 in Upper Alsace,) while immigrants from other parts of the empire had increased by 36,968. The reduction of the native element is due to the ever-increasing emigration of the peo-

To Breed Arabian Horses in America.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.
Mr. Robert Hicks Mendall of Suffolk, England, who represents a syndicate of leading Arabians, is in his way to Texas and Southern California to inspect lands there offered for sale. In response to questions propounded by the syndicate, Mr. Mendall said: "My present mission is to secure, if possible, grazing lands that will be of the same tempera- ture and character as those of northern Arabia. Several English gentlemen desire to try the experiment on a large scale of rearing the pure Arabian horse on American soil. It is said there are portions of Lower California, Arizona, and Texas where the same pure blood, and given additional nutrition in the way of varied grasses and vegetable food, with a more salubrious climate and a purer Union, the breed cannot but prove better than its original stock, but it is the firm belief of some of the most experienced turners of England that the world has never yet seen all the possibilities that lie in the heels of a true Arabian. Although there is some difficulty in securing the best Arabian blood now, yet money will place the finest of Arabia's herds at the disposition of those who can afford the price. Improvements in transportation of late years have been so great that there is no trouble in having them brought over to America safely."
